Here's What's Happening This Week

Spelling

Our words for next week are review words, so they will look familiar. Please practice them with your child as you would any week. They are: ran, God, pet, mud, big, fox, am, men, sun, man, *sit,*us, *fast. We will have our practice test on Monday, and our test on Wednesday. If your child will be out on Tuesday and Wednesday, please have them ready for the test on Monday.

Miscellaneous

Please have your child read over the break. Ten minutes a night would be better than 30 minutes one night. They may read from anything.

With fall in the air, please remember to label sweaters, sweatshirts and jackets.

Please remember to check your child's Homework Tablet each evening, and sign as they finish their homework.

Bible

The children have done a great job with the books of the Old Testament. Next week we will be reviewing. There will be no new memory work.

Math

We have been working on the concept of addition writing number sentences. The children have also been introduced to the words addend, sum, plus sign, and equal sign.

Phonics

Please review the sounds on pages 60 and 61 in Handbook for Reading. The children were just introduced to the chart on page 88.

Also when your child is interested in writing at home, instead of spelling for them, help them think of the sounds at the beginning, middle, and end of the word. They will need help with sight words that do not follow the rules.

Celebrate America and Grandparent Day were merged together this year, and we had a very positive response.

The children enjoyed making bookmarks for their grandparents and inviting them into the room to look around. With it being an early dismissal day, many spent the afternoon with them as well.
