

MESSINGER'S MEMO

September 8,
2011

Here's What's Happening This Week

Bible

I have been so proud of your children as we are all learning the books of the Old Testament. We are learning them by song, and will have learned through Song of Solomon by Friday. We have learned that the word testament means promise.

Homework

Tonight is your child's first night of homework. He or she will have homework most nights, so please help by checking their homework tablet. Most assignments will be to read orally to an adult. You will then initial their tablet to show that the homework was completed. Math pages and other work will be included from time to time. It is very important for the children to have their reading books each day, folders too 😊.

Miscellaneous

Please make sure your child has a uniform sweater or sweatshirt for school. Also be sure to put their name somewhere inside.

Math

This week we have making number bonds to ten, and comparing numbers. We have used the terms greater than, less than and equal to, and have used the symbols. We are working with place value.

Phonics

The children have learned the special sounds made by ck, st, ay, e, y, and o. These are sound on the yellow chart in Handbook for Reading page 60. We will begin to learn sounds on the blue chart on page 75 as well.

Spelling List

1. bed

2. fed

3. red

4. get

5. let

6. pet

7. men

8. yes

9. for

10. as

Please notice that we do not have any capitalized words this week. Also be sure you are having your child write the words. Some children are able to spell the words orally, but have some difficulty writing them. Writing practice will help them. Have a "pretend" test at home.

